Buck Tuesday afternoon. The action was between Ernest F. Wolf and Joseph and Felix Tennant. The decision of Judge Buck was in favor of Wolfe, who was given an order enjoining the Tennants from use of the name Yellow Cab and from the use of a combination of colors designed to mislead the public.

LAWRENCEVILLE MAN HAS ORIGINAL ANDRE LETTER

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ill., Nov. 26, (UP)—The original letter that Major John Andre wrote to George Washing during the revolution, asking he be shot to death, and not hanged as a spy ,is reported to be in posession of an oil company employe here, Herbert Taylor.

Taylor, whose hobby is collecting historic old documents, believes the letter authentic original and claims he purchased it from a New Orleans man, who obtained it from a contractor, who vouches for the story that it was hidden in a house attic, and stolen by vandals from the national capital after the war of 1812.

The letter in part reads:

"Sympathy toward a soldier will surely induce your Excellency and a military tribunal to adapt the mode of my death to the feelings of a man of honor.

"Let me hope, sir, that if aught in my character impresses you with esteem towards me, if aught in my misfortunes marks me as the victim of policy or resentment, I shall experience the opration of these feelings in your breast by being informed that I am not to die on the jibbet."

Exchange Club Hears Address On Dirigibles

Plans Being Made for Annual Exchange Party For Christmas

The progress of aviation was the subject of a talk given before members of the Redwood City Exchange Club by A. Mackentosh, representative of the Goodyear Rubber Company. The talk dealt largely with the dirigible, of which the Goodyear Company is a large manufacturer. One of the largest factories in the world for the manufacture of this type of air craft is maintained by this company.

The chairman of the meeting Tuesday evening was Adolph Keney. Plans are being made by the club to hold the annual Christmas party again this year. The party is given each year for the children of the community, and is always much enjoyed by the kiddies. A committee headed by Wilbur Doxsee is in charge of this event.

WORKMEN FIND REMAINS OF FRENCH SOLDIERS IN REVOLUTIONARY WAR

PARIS, Nov. 26 (UP)—The Great War did not produce the first "Unknown Soldier," for despite the ease with which foregoing generations have forgotten their heroes, every war in history has left its battlefields and grave-yards sprinkled with the missing and unidentified.

News that John D. Rockefeller, jr.,'s workmen, digging on the spot where once stood the Governor's palace in Williamsburg, Va., had uncovered the skeletons of ten French soldiers who fought in the War of American Independence, has caused a profound sensation in France, where newspapers record the event with explanatory and historical text showing that the Governor's palace also was used as the base hospital of the French Expeditionary Force under General Lafayette and Admiral Rochambeau.

It is assumed that the soldiers whose skeletons have been found after 155 years died of wounds in the palace ,and were buried in the nearby grounds.

Thus the French have stirred their own latent interest in their heroes of that day, in generously replying to the appeal from across the Atlantic for their assistance in reconstructing the historic capital of the Sovereign State. It is even hinted by some newspapers that the skeletons be either removed to France and interred beneath befitting monument to Franco-American kindred ideals or honored in some such way by the American government on the spot, or at least the soil on which they fell in the interest of liberty.

Legion Officers Visit Local Post

Redwood Post Working For Membership; Planning Christmas Party

Harold Hotschner, of San Mateo the new district commander of the American Legion for California, and District Vice Commander Louis Chess, also of San Mateo, paid an official visit to Redwood City Post No. 105, at their club rooms in War Memorial Hall Monday night. The district commander gave an inspiring address, during which he stressed the membership drive. He stated that up to November 16 the airplane squadron wroking on membership had delivered to the Sacramento office of the American Legion State department 22,000 members enrolled with their dues paid up for 1931. By December 16, Hotschner said that he anticipated that the number would be close to 50,000.

Redwood City Post is working hard in the membership campaign and is inviting all world war veterans who are not yet members to get in touch with Thomas Vernall, chairman of the membership committee, who can be reached at any time of the day at the store of Stafford and Long, 2388 Broadway.

Vice District Commander Chess also spoke at the meeting Monday night.

Adjutant James Debenedetti read a letter from the city council of Redwood, replying to the communication of the local Legion post requesting that American citizens and citizens of the city be given preference in municipal work. The communication from the council stated that this policy was being carried out, it being a provision of the city charter.

Christmas Party

The local post is planning for a big Christmas tree party on the evening of December 22, in the Legion Hall for members and their families.

After being fast on the rocks off shore at Pebble Beach, the tanker Tamiahua, of the Richfield Oil Company, was floated into deep water Tuesday afternoon after several prior attempts to drag the boat from the rocks had failed. The removal of the ship from the ledge was accomplished by three sea-going tugs, Peacock, Sea Rover, and Sea Ranger. Special steel cables had to be secured before the ship could be moved.

After being pulled free of the rocks the ship was taken in tow and hauled to the Hunters Point docks for repairs, being kept afloat the while by pontoons and by pumping water from the hold, which was leaking badly.

At a board of enquiry in San Francisco this week it was found that the reason for the ship grounding was the low power of her engines which made it impossible to operate against the heavy currents which flow around Pigeon Point. The heavy fog added to the dificulties of navigation.

CARS COLLIDE AT CHESTNUT CORNER

Two cars were damaged in a collision Tuesday evening at the corner of Chestnut street and El Camino Real. One of the cars was driven by Joe Eastburn, 153 Finger ave., the other by George Tavalero, 441 Jackson street. The crash occured when Tavalero endeavored to make a left hand turn onto Chestnut street from the highway. The accident was investigated by Officer Slyvester Douglass. Each driver told Officer Douglass that he saw the other car, but both expected the other car to stop.

BICYCLE SMASHED

A bicycle belonging to Manuel Garcia was crushed when F. L. Jakubik backed his car from the curb on Main street. Jakubik told Officer W. H. Thorpe that the bicycle was left lying on the street behind his car and that he did not see it when he backed out.

Propose New Plan For Two Counties Of Consolidation

Maj. Kirkbride Offers Outline Of County Incorporation

A new plan for the consolidation of San Francisco and San Mateo counties was presented to the Board of Freeholders of San Francisco Tuesday by Major Charles N. Kirkbride, San Mateo attorney, member of the counties consolidation committee.

The plan submitted by Major Kirkbride provides:

I. That with ratification of the consolidation by the voters, the two counties would become the City and County of San Francisco.

2. That San Mateo county have a one-third representation on the Board of Supervisors and be represented by at least one member on the Fire, Police, Park, Electric, City Planning commissions and the Board of Health.

3. That the consolidated area would assume all of the outstanding bonded debt of San Mateo county. San Francisco's bonded indebtedness would continue as the obligation of this city, unless San Mateo county should vote to assume any specific share of it.

4. That all incorporated cities in the two counties, including San Francisco, would function under the borough form of government, with authority to issue bonds and create assessment districts for local improvements.

5. That there be a uniform county tax rate for the consolidated area.

Presenting the plan to the freeholders, Major Kirkbride said:

"After two years of studying the consolidation problem, we of the counties consolidation committee feel that if you incorporate our program in a charter chapter, unification of our counties would have its best chance of being favored at the polls. Sentiment in San Mateo county has been undergoing a change, and, I believe. is favorable right now to consolidation along the lines proposed in the plan."

State's Banks Have Funds To Meet Emergency

Banks Show Big Gain In Funds During Past Ten Years

By HOMER L. ROBERTS

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 26 (UP)—California's banks have "more than ample funds for any emergency and are now ready for the general revival of business that follows in the wake of a temporary period of slackened industrial and commercial growth."

This optimistic report was made this week to Governor Young by Will C. Wood state superintendent of banks, who said that the fiscal year brought to a close a decade of banking growth in California unparalleled in the state's history.

In 1920, Wood said, the 725 state and national banks and their 170 branches reported aggregate resources of $2,499,316,000. On June of this year the 437 state and national banks with 852 branches reported resources totaling $4,233,409,000.

The gain in ten years was nearly two billion dollars!

During the same period savings deposits showed an increase of almost a billion dollars, bringing their total up to $1,890,136,000 on June 30, 1930. Commercial deposits, which now stand at $1,003,637,000, increased by more than a quarter of a billion.

"In view of surrounding business conditions, the state banks have made a very creditable showing during the past ewo years," said Wood. "All banks in this state reported an aggregate decline of $38,000,000 in savings deposits on June 30, 1930, as compared to a year ago. Our summaries reveal that the state system actually recorded a slight gain in savings dposits during this interval.

"In past periods of economic depression the question of liquidation without loss in slow moving credit lines has been the chief concern of the banks. The present situation affords an agreeable contrast, for at no time during the present administration has the cash and secondary reserve position of the banks been more adequate."

"Pop" Warner Sees Eastern Victory

Coach Glenn "Pop" Warner predicts that Dartsmouth will defeat Stanford in the big intersectional game to be played in the Stanford stadium Saturday afternoon.

"The East is about due to win an intersectional contest," said "Pop," "and this Dartmouth outfit is a great team."

It was pointed out by the mentor at Stanford that the Easterners have a five pound advantage in the line oven the Cardinals.

"California made us look rather bad at times—their line played as well as ours did, as a matter of fact," said Warner, "and while we won by a score of 41 to 0, we were held to a lone touchdown in the first half."

"We haven't the same team that went east in 1928 and beat the Army nor are we as strong as last year when we won from the Cadets in our own stadium. We are outweighted in the line and that is where Dartmouth shows best."

While is is though by many that the "old fox" is making these pessemistic statements for the effect and in order that his team will enter the game as the underdogs—a wellknown bit of Warner psychology—there is no question that the game next Saturday will be evenly contested and that the team that wins will have not more that a touchdown or two to the good.

With a big portion of the receipts of the game going to the aid of the unemployed, the demand for tickets to the big meet has increased considerably within the past few days and it is anticipated that the stadium will be practically sold out by the time of the kickoff— which is 2 o'clock.

Art Director Loses in Suit

Rights to Roadway Over Land Of Lemos Sustained By Court Order

Pedro J. Lemos, noted art director of Stanford University, lost the suit he brought in the superior court to determine title rights to a road crossing the Lemos holdings near Pescadero when Superior Judge George H. Buck rendered judgment for the defendants Wednesday afternoon. The defendants were a group of Palo Alto residents, headed by E. C. Waterman, who had bought a park site above the Lemos tract for a Native Sons' park. The plaintiff contended that the defendants' claim to a perpetual easement over his place was without foundation. It was reported that the road in question had been in use for more than thirty years.

Cars Bump; Clip Off Fire Hydrant

Two cars were damaged, two persons hurt and a fire hydrant broken off on a collision at the intersection of Arguello street and Brewster avenue at 7:30 Wednesday evening.

The collision occured as M. H. Harkins, St. Matthews hotel, San Mateo, was driving north on Arguello and William Chapman, 7115 Geary street, San Francisco, was driving east on Brewster avenue. The two cars collided at the intersection, and the Chapman car was thrown against a fire hydrant at the corner breaking off the three inch connection and flooding the scene with water. Mrs. K. Barth, 7115 Geary street, who was riding with Chapman, complained of head injuries and was taken to the office of Dr. Harper Peddicord.

Gold Strike in Fresno Excites Old Prospectors

FRESNO, Cal., Nov. 28 (UP)—A genuine gold strike discovered here during the Fresno district fair while crowds of thousands milled around unaware of it, has been the cause of much feverishness among the prospectors here.

The discovery was made when a large sample of galena ore suspected of containing relatively semi-precious metals was accidentially dropped.

The chunk scattered, disclosing free flower of gold estimated to run $4000 to the ton.

The sample piece of ore was taken from the F. P. Burris property, the Silver Cord Mining co. claim on the rugged slope of Mt. Banner in the Minarets of the Sierra Nevada mountains.

The sample piece of galena was expected to run only about $100 a ton in value.

Prospectors now are awaiting spring, when the snows of the high mountains will have gone sufficiently to permit them to return to the scene where the ore was found and make further exploration.

The accident occured when a car stopped in front of a machine driven by A. F. Roller of San Francisco, to allow another machine driven by Albert Sarton, 264 Main street to make a left hand turn onto Madison street.

Roller, who was directly behind the machine which stopped, swerved to the left to avoid hitting the other machine, and collided with the one driven by Sarton, and in which Ribero was riding. Sarton's car was disabled and was towed into the Davies garage for repairs. Roller took Ribero in his car to the office of Dr. Herbert Clattenburg, where he was given treatment for his injuries. Rockne's Boys in Silk Pants Puzzled Fans

"Why do the Notre Dame boys wear silk pants?" is a question frequently tossed at Knute Rockne, and that old master of repartee usually has a different answer for each occasion.

Jim Harrison, publicity director for Columbia University, which has nice uniforms if not much of a football team, furnishes some facts about the new style in gridiron attire.

Says Mr. Harrison (and if he mentions Columbia, you musn't mind him, that's a college):

"Despite the bulky appearance of a football uniform, with its pads and heavy shoes, the well-dressed football player these days wears lighter clothes on the field than off it. For instance the playing uniform of a Columbia University gridironer weighs 11½ pounds while the average weight of a six-footer's civilian outfit is about 15 or 16 pounds.

Coaches Try to Cut Equipment Weight

"The aim of your modern football coach is not to increase the weight of his players but to decrease it, paradoxical as that may sound. The coach, of course, like big, sturdy men but he insists that they be as lightly garbed as possible. To save a few pounds the college athletic authorities will spend several thousand dollars and consider the money well invested.

"This is illustrated in the case of the Columbia squad. Each player has in his locker a light-weight warm-weather uniform and a cold-weather uniform. The difference between the two is four pounds, and even the heavy, cold-weather outfit is six pounds or more lighter than the uniform that college elevens wore only a few years ago. The latter weighed from 17 pounds up, whereas the Columbia light-weight costume displaces only 11½ pounds. "In addition to this there is a special uniform for wet weather."

Tiny Island Producing Race of Fighting Men

Porto Rico, that tight little isle of not so many square isles, lying to the East of Cuba, is fast becoming known as a place where fighting men—good fighting men—are produced.

It may be the climate. Or the food. Whatever the cause, Porto Rico, despite its small size, is sending out better fighters than Germany, England, and Italy and other countries much larger and more densley populated. Germany hasn't sent over a better fighting man than Max Schmeling and Max, despite the fact that he is the heavyweight champion of these and other worlds, is far from a high class performer.

England, outside of Kid Berg, hasn't sent a likely looking man to the States for quite some time, and Italy—well, Primo Carnera was Italy's best.

Porto Rico has two really worthy boys fighting in the vicinity of New York at the present time. One of them is Angel Cliville, a middleweight, and the other is Koli Koli, a bantam.

Cliville was practically an unknown until last week when he knocked Rene DeVos kicking in one round. And if you'll consult the record books you'll learn that Rene has been knocked out mighty seldom. His kayo by Cliville was the first time he had hit the floor for good in his career, according to Jimmy Bronson, the Belgian's handler.

Confident of Winning Championship Crown

Cliville, a cocky sort of chap, says that he will be the middleweight champion before another year has passed. Before climbing in the ring to face DeVos, the Porto Rican said: "That guy'll be easy. I know I can lick him."

Nineteen seconds later he did just that by when he feinted with his left and crossed a right flush to the Rene's jaw. The Belgian veteran did not come to life until he was in his dressing room. Evidently Angel can hit like the devil.

Cliville has yet to lose a fight in this country. He has won his last seven starts by knockouts. And all of them came in the first round.

Koli, like Cliville toured the smaller clubs before he got more than a line or two in the metropolitan dailies. Finally the little fellow ran up such an amazing string of wins that the bigger clubs were forced to pay attention. He was booked into the larger arenas and proved a strong drawing card.

Koli suffered his first defeat a few weeks ago but showed that it did not upset him by winning his next time out.

It may be the climate. Or the food. But whatever the cause, Porto Rico is sending some mighty classy little leather pushers to the States.

COACH DOBIE'S PRAYER ANSWERED BY VIVIANO

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 26 (UP)—The answer to Coach Gil Dobie's prayers for a hard running, defensive back is Bart Viviano, star of Cornell's 1930 football team.

Viviano, a native of Plainfield, N. J., employs little deception, or shiftiness in running, but he has such power he makes up for that deficiency in a measure. He is inclined to plow into a tackler rather than to side step him.

He is not regarded as speedy as George Pfann or Eddie Kaw, former stars of the Big Red eleven, but he does rank with them in receiving passes. He has not yet attained the passing and punting ability of Pfann or Kaw.

Bart, five feet, ten inches tall and weighing 180 pounds, prepared for Cornell at Phillips Andover, where he was captain of the football team in his senior year.

EX-SAND LOT COACH PRODUCES GREAT TEAM

By JAMES S. SHEEHY
United Press Staff Correspondent

PULLMAN, Wash. (UP)—This is a story about an ex-sand lot football coach who is in line to capture the Pacific Coast conference championship and win national honors with his Washington State college team.

He is "Babe" Hollingberry whose great cougar team beat California 16 to 0 and followed a week later with a 7-6 victory over the powerful Southern California eleven.

This man Hollingberry never attended college. They say he didn't quite know where Washington State College was located when he was approached about coaching the Cougars in 1926. Pullman, Washington, was just another town to him.

But Hollingberry has let the football world know about Washington State and Pullman. Seconded by the able "Buck" Bailey, line coach, the Cougar mentor touched the the heights of greatness in spilling the Bears and Trojans on successive Saturdays. The California fans were stunned. Howard Jones, Trojan mentor, said he didn't believe a northern team could thump two "native state" teams in succession.

Hollingberry went through the school of hard knocks to win his laurels unaided. He began coaching in San Francisco in 1920. He was playing football at the time with the Olympic Club. He coached Lick High, where he attended school as a boy, from 2 to 4p. m.; Bates from 4 to 6 and the Olympic Club from 6 to 8. Two of the teams were undefeated, the other a runner up for honors.

Hollingberry came to Pullman in 1926 and with characteristic frankness asked that he be given but a one year contract. He wanted to make good or quit. He lost but one game that year, being defeated by Southern California, 16 to 7.

If the Cougars win their remaining games they appear certain to go to Pasadena for the east-west classic, January 1, 1931. Washington and Oregon State remain in their way.

Eastern fans will see a great team when Washington State meets Villanova at Philadelphia, November 29. They will see an All-American tackle prospect in "Turk" Edwards, a great center in Mel Hein, a smashing fullback in Elmer Schwartz, and four fine ends in Maskell, J. Hurley, Hill and Hansen. The team has everything and the will to win under a great coach.

PENN TO LOSE HOCKEY STAR FOR THIS SEASON

PHILADELPHIA, No. 26—(UP)—The University of Pennsylvania ice hockey team will be without the services of one of its most dependable players this season.

Charley Greene, of Forest Hills, N. Y., versatile Penn athletic, at present playing a bangup game at fullback on the football team, has decided to curtail his athletic activities temporarily with the close the gridiron season to devote more time to his studies.

Heretofore, he has been a very busy man the year round, ice hockey, tennis, football and track, all coming under the heading of his activities, and he now finds that in order not to neglect the books he'll have to cut down on the athletic endeavors.

Slated to succeed James Ryan as the captain of the tennis team, the Forest Hills boy's first thought of sports, after he puts away the moleskins, will be the indoor tennis championships at Cornell University at the end of February.

Greene never played ice hockey before coming to the university but strange as it may seem he came up fast and soon was one of the bright spots in the varsity lineup.

He competed in the Penn interscholastic tennis tournament while a student at Newtown High School and reached the final round only to be defeated by Frank Shields.

His father, Eddie Greene, will be remembered as the captain of the University of Pennsylvania football team of 1907.

Much Interest Shown In Tanforan Racing

Celebrating Thanksgiving in true California fashion the Pacific Coast Breeders Association inaugerated gala three-day program of racing at Tanforan over the holiday week-end, featuring, during the triple-bill, the San Bruno Handicap on Saturday. The three-day feature will be a special attraction of the 25-day meeting now in progress at the San Bruno track.

The big stake races got underway last Thursday when more than 15,000 racing fans saw J. W. Marchbank's DeSwasey come on from behind to win the breeders handicap, worth more than $5,000. This Saturday it is expected that more than 20,000 will be in the stands to watch some of the finest American thoroughbreds compete for the San Bruno purse. Tanforan's home town will turn out enmasse for the big event and will be augumented by thousands from other California communities.

The big week-end program got under way yesterday, Thanksgiving, with the Thanksgiving Handicap, worth more than $2,500. The celebration continues today with the observance at the track of Football Friday. Tomorrow will wind up the celebration with the handicap as the headliner on an interesting card. Judge Furras' Easter Stockings is a high favorite for tomorrow, but running a close second is Stuart Polk's Tonto Rock. Then to make matters interesting it is likely that Benjamin Block will put in Morcnge, son of California's Kentucky Derby winner, Morvich.

Ample provisions have been made to handle the big crowd expected tomorrow when the racing gets under way at 1:45 p. m. A brilliant field has been picked for the handicap, and lovers of the kingly sport are promised a thrilling day. The option system will be in vogue.

New Machine Tests Asphalt For Experts

Bureau of Standards Speeds Up Work on Samples

By JAMES STOKLEY
United Press Science Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (UP)—A machine that deteriorates asphalt roofing material as much in a few days as months of exposure to the weather is the latest device used at the Bureau of Standards.

It is used to speed up tests. If the samples are prepared and exposed to the weather, a long time must elapse before it can be learned whether or not they wear well. But with the machine ,this information can be obtained quickly.

The devise has been used by O. G. Strieter, research associate of the Asphalt Shingle and Roofing Institute. It consists of three carbon arc lamps operating at 220 volts and 13 amperes. Each lamp is surrounded by a cylinder with three-inch slots, in back of which are inserted the test panels. The entire cylinder is turned by a motor once in 20 minutes. Vertical water jets can be turned on, imitating light rain, while ordinary lawn sprinklers, with rotating arms, are used for vigorous spraying, to stimulate hard rain. Because of the heat produced by the lamps, the cylnders are ordinarly kept at a temperature of 140 degrees, but a separate refrigerating unit can be used to cool them, in order to produce the effects of sudden temperature changes.

Panels of asphalt coated on aluminum, similar to those used in the "weathering" machine, were exposed to the open air for a long time, and it was found that the effects were practically the same.

By means of the effects produced by weathering the asphalt samples, they may be classified, and this is being checked with their chemical analysis.

Canal Traffic Shows Slump

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (UP)—A slight decrease in traffic passing through the Panama Canal in the fiscal year 1930 as compared with 1929 was reported to Secretary of War Hurley today by Governor H. Burgess of the Canal Zone.

During the last year 6,185 ocean-going vessels transited the canal, as compared with 6,413 in 1929. Tolls amounted to $27,076,890.01 as compared with $27,127,376.91 in the previous year, the report showed.

Despite the decrease in traffic this year under 1929, it was greater than in 1928, save for the number of ships passing through and greater, even in that respect, than in any year before 1928, the report said.

Burgess said he did not regard th slight drop in traffic as a sufficient reason to stop work on the new Madden Dam, which will provide more water for use in Gatun Lake, and that construction had continued.

Experts Study Native Life on Lonely Island

Field Museum Expedition Finds Sect of Isolated Culture

CHICAGO, Nov. 25 (UP)—One of the world's most isolated cultures is found among a people who have no conception of a Supreme Being, no idea of a life after death, and who govern themselves by nothing more stringent than a code of ethics based upon public opinion as it is manifest among themselves.

These people are natives of the Nicobar Islands, a group of small islands in the Bay of Bengal and the Andaman Islands. A small but interesting ethnological collection representing them is on exhibition in the department of anthropology at Field Museum of Natural History.

Anthropologists are interested by the fact that although the Nicobar Islands are only 80 miles from the Andaman Islands where the natives are negroid, the Nicobar have none Instead of being small, black-skinned, kinky-haired and living on a low scale, the bulk of the Nicobar population are brown, lank haired, of fair statute, and semi-civilized. They live in good houses, cultivate food plants and possess domisticated animals.

Field Museum curators point to their circular communal houses as a primitive form of socialism. They have few weapons and are not warlike.

Although they have no conception of a Supreme Being they have a strong fear of evil spirits which are regarded in part as being ghosts of the wicked. These they believe may be appeased by offrings and kept away by exorcisms.

The Nicobars have no regular places of worship, but they have priest-doctors supposed to have power to communicate with the spirits and by ceremonials prevent them from doing evils.

Marriage among the Nicobars is apt to be of rather transitory nature and most adults make numerous alliances.

Who Lacks Faith?

"Any lack of confidence in the economic future or the basic strength of business in the United States is foolish," says President Hoover.

The stock market collapse, temporary business depressions, or financial crises are momentary phenomena. American business is the soundest in the world, the most progressive, the wealthiest. Our tremendous reserves in capital and credit are steadily building up new enterprises, improving the employment problem, and increasing the national payroll. This is no mythical prosperity of ours, but an actual prosperity whose benefits accrue mainly to the great mass of American citizens and wage-earners.

We live in an age where not only the necessities of life but many of the luxuries are part and parcel of the daily life of the average person. American business has but entered the new era of social and commercial progress.

Only the foolish, as the President says, can lack faith in the future of America. The wise will take the collapses and depressions for what they are — puny obstacles in the great march of progress.

Silver Threads Among Gold

There is plenty of proof that more people are constantly arriving at the "upper age level," or in that sphere when the silver threads are entwined among the gold, according to the State Department of Public Health of Illinois.

In an official statement given prominence in Washington, the Illinois Health Department attributes the extension of the average life expectancy to modern methods of living which result in saving the lives of infants, children and young adults. After being nourished, nurtured and guided through their young and sensitive years, young men and young women are pretty apt, if they continue to live properly, to have longer lives, than their parents and grandparents.

People live longer in Illinois than they used to, but it is an open question whether they are getting any better, even though they do grow older.

Selection

We exist, in our present civilization, by reason of the willingness of others to give us those things that we require in exchange for something we have to offer.

Each day the world is saying to young women who would become movie actresses: "There isn't room for you in this profession. We're short of waitresses, though. You can get a living behind the counter."

This seems cruel, but how could we find our places otherwise? Under this system everything is kept in balance. We get just about the right number of farmers, mechanics, laborers, acrobats and cabaret entertainers. When we get tired of saxophone players we will send them back to barbering and piano moving.

Depression?

Every one's scenting a panic,
Every one's singing the blues,
Still whenever you go to a picture show,
You stand—till they're through with the news.

The county is going to perdition,
We'll have bread lines before we have snow—
But try to buy seats for a football game
And see what you get for your 'dough.'

We're all going to starve—that's decided,
A job simply cannot be bought,
But when Sharkey fights Who's this, just try to get in
And you'll see what 'hard time' we've got.

The guv-er-ment's got to do something,
Or we'll fall in our tracks and we'll lay—
Yet the lady, by gosh, who does up our wash
Brings it back in a nice coupe.

So I think all this talk of a panic,
Of the country about to go "blooey,"
Between you and me, and the old apple tree,
Is a lot of plain old-fashioned 'hoo-ey.'
—Jazbo of Old Dubuque.

A message given to a soldier during the war was delivered 11 years later. Probably one of the regular messenger boys.

Congressional Apportionment

By D. E. O'KEEFE

According to a report from Washington it would appear that California is entitled to nine extra congressmen under the late census returns which show that this state is second in its population growth. The State Legislature in January will make the reapportionment and thereby hangs a tale. The selection of a speaker of the Asembly hinges on this issue, it is said. Los Angeles wants the entire nine congressmen in its section, not conceding any to the north. Should Assemblyman Little of the south be chosen as speaker it is more than likely that the nine new districts will be carved out of the southern territory, while if Edgar Levy is selected it is possible that the north will get one or two congressmen. A proposition has been made that one extra congressman will go to the San Francisco region. The proposed new district to consist of the southern end of San Francisco, San Mateo and Santa Clara counties. Mr. Free's district would then be cut considerably. It all depends upon the fight for the speakership. While the south has gained tremendously in population it should not be permitted to take the allotment of the new congressmen. The north ought to be taken care of. In the event of San Mateo county becoming a part of the congressional district of San Francisco, the latter would dominate and probably elect the new congressman. When this territory was a part of the old Fifth district of San Francisco it usually elected its congressman, although E. A. Hayes of San Jose represented the district at Washington for many years. It is to be hoped that the next legislature will make the reappointment so that this district will be changed, for we have nothing in common with Ventura or San Luis Obispo. We belong to San Francisco.

A Good Resolution

The following resolution was passed by the Executive Committee of the California Newspaper Publishers Association at their meeting, November 10.

"WHEREAS there are along the highways of California advertising signs and particularly illuminated signs which distract the eye of the motorist from the road and from the official guide signs thus creating a dangerous traffic hazard;

"THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that this organization use its best efforts to bring about the removal of all such signs to locations where they wil cease to be a menace to traffic.

Now for Christmas

Well, now that Thanskgiving is out of the way, the pies and turkey and the cranberry sauce all disposed of except for the hash, which will linger for a day or so, we can now turn our attention to Christmas. And, of course, with Christmas, comes the problem of Christmas presents. Christmas shopping is not such a problem these days, however. In the old days of not so many years ago when the limit of the merchant's advertising was to insert in as small a space as possible the words, "John Smith, Hardware," or it might have been—grocer, clothier or jeweler—it required a good deal of mental effort to think of gifts for all the family and friends. But today, the merchants devote large spaces just to listing practical and pleasing gifts, even illustrating these suggestions. In this way the planning of Christmas shopping becomes a simple and pleasant task. Instead of milling about in crowded stores and looking over large stocks just to make up your mind what to get, how much simpler it is to take your paper, look over the attractive advertisements and make a list of presents in your home. This is one sign of progressive merchandising.

We can't help but admire the candor of the sign some times posted across a road under repair: "Slow Men At Work."

Now will someone please call a conference at Washington for the limitation of arguments.

Love's Sacrifice

"What has happened? Is she - - is she dead!

CONCERNING THE ACTION AND CHARACTERS

Sally Todd and Lois Montgomery leave home to seek their fortunes in New York.

Sally's brother, Bert, who is in love with Lois, follows them.

Lois meets a young man whom she knew when she was a wealthy woman's secretary.

He and a chap named FRISBY show her and Sally little attention, but Lois' thoughts are chiefly on the problems of existence.

Lois finally gets a job with a firm of interior decorators. Sally struggles for a foothold in the movies. They have a hard time making both ends meet.

Sally enters hospital training, finally convinced that the films ho. ho future for her.

Lois is absorbed i nher own work.

During her employer's illness, she is sent to the palatial residence of James Walton to make a preliminary report.

Sally's liking for gay company causes a coolness between herself and Lois.

It also involves Lois in difficulties with Bert.

Lois is strongly attracted to Walton, who is much older than herself, and very rich and distinguished. —She finds him very cold and domineering.

—He demands she give up her friendship with Sally.

....Sally, meanwhile, is in hot water at the hospital, because she is too fond of a good time.

Chapter 24

After an especially gay party she is assigned in an emergency to night duty..

...She falls asleep while waiting for the special nurse to come, and the patient, in her delirium, rushes from the room and jumps from a window. By a miracle she escapes with minor injuries, but Sally's fate is sealed.

Unfit

She is dismissed in disgrace just before graduation.

Chapter 30.

Dr. Dale Randolph, out of sympathey, offers her a position in his office. He does not guess that Sally, while at the hospital, occasionally used drugs to bloster up her energies after gay parties.

Lois provides Sally with a little home in the country.

...Sally falls in love with Dr. Randolph, who has no idea of her feeling for him.

Randolph meets Lois and likes her at once.

...This is too much for Sally... She again resorts to the use of drugs, and, while in a befuddled condition, tells Randolph she loves him.

Chapter 35.

The Revelation

Immediately after Dr. Randolph had telephoned her that Sally was ill and that he was sending her home in his car, Lois ordered her roadster and dashed for the little house, accompanied by her maid Then, leaving the maid at the house, she drove to the village to buy medical supplies. When she returned, the maid told her that Dr. Randolph's car had come, but that Miss Todd was not in it. She repeated the chauffeur's theory that Sally had left the car while it was held in traffic.

Lois was frantic. She tried to get Dr. Randolph on the wire, but was unable to reach him. There seemed to be nothing to do. but wait, and that was hard. The approach of the dinner-hour at last compelled her to start for home. But she left her maid at Sally's house with instructions to call her as soon as Miss Todd appeared, and to try to reach Dr. Randolph meanwhile.

After dinner, while James Walton and a business associate were deep in a game of chess, Dr. Randolph telphoned Lois. The maid had just succeeded in reaching him, and he had also heard the story from his chauffeur.

"I'm going to come out immediately," he said. "My chauffeur will notify the police."

"I'll join you at Miss Todd's home," said Lois. "I'm sure she will be there soon, unless she has met with an accident."

When Lois alighted for the second time that day at the little house. Dr. Randolph's car was entering the drive. He sprang out and rushed up to Lois. I met a taxi coming from this direction about a mile down the road," he said. "Perhaps she is here now."

Lois's maid met them as they entered the house. "Miss Todd is here," she whispered. "She came just a few minutes ago. She went up to her room at once and wouldn't say a word."

Lois glanced apprehensively at Dale Randolph. "We'd better go to her," she said. Together they mounted the stairs. Lois tapped at Sally's door, but there was no answer. Lois opened the door and called "Sally," There was no answer. The room was dark. She switched on the light and then, in panic, summoned Dr. Randolph.

Sally was lying face downward on the bed, fully dressed.

"What has happened? Is she — is she dead? gasped Lois.

Dr. Randolph bent over Sally and lifted her eyelids. "She is in a stupor," he said. Then he muttered to himself: "Must have gotten some more of the stuff after she left me."

Turning to Lois, he said: 'I'll call your maid. You'd better get her to bed."

'I'll talk to you about that later," he answered.

When she decended to the little living-room, he had built a fire in the grate an dwas standing before it, his hands thrust deep into his pockets. She seated herself before the fire and looked up at him. Despite her anxiety over Sally she was thinking subconsciously that he was very handsome and that he looked very staunch and dependable.

"You want to know what it's all about," he said, walking up and down the room. "I hardly know how to tell you — I can hardly realize it myself. To be frank, Miss Todd occasionally uses drugs. That's what ails her now, but——"

He stopped, for Lois was staring at him in utter horror.

"You can't mean that she's an addict?" she gasped.

"No. no. But she is an occasional user of drugs, I'm sure of that." And he told her of his suspicions.

"But why should she use drugs now?" Lois queried. "She leads the most normal sort of life, and her work is not hard."

Dale Randolph colored painfully. "I think she has been under a nervous or emotional strain," he said finally. "She made rather a scene in the office today." He couldn't bring himself to tell Lois what Sally had said, but Lois, knowing her friend's secret, could guess.

She nodded understandingly. "I hadn't thought of that," she said. "Yes, of course, that's it. She told me that she was very — very fond of you, and that you didn't—"

He looked at her with such a miserable expression in his eyes that she couldn't go on.

"I don't know what to do," he said helplessly. "I can't have her in the office after this. And she has no other means of livelihood."

"Don't let that worry you," said Lois. "I can take care of her, as far as money goes. But I can't give her very much of my time. My husband objects—"

Dr. Randolph almost said: "I don't blame him," but he choked back the words.

There was a tap at the door, and Lois's maid appeared to say that Miss Todd seemed to be waking.

"I'd rather not see her," said Dale Randolph. I'm sure she's all right. Call me, if you think she isn't. I'll wait down here."

Lois went up-stairs slowly, dreading the task that lay before her.

GALE SWEEPS SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

LOOKING INTO REAL ESTATE

A good many people in this country have needed no encouragement to undertake home owing, says the National Association of Real Estate Boards in the ninety-third of its series of articles for the public.

Thousands and thousands of families have gone quietly about this important transaction without the persuasions of salesmen. Thousands of women have skimped and saved, made their own clothes ,and taken in boarders, painted their houses, and stopped going to the movies in order to get the first payment for homes of their own.

The National Association of Real Estate Boards believes that tales of how individual families achieved home ownership will spur other families on to the same end. The Association announces today a contest for the most interesting letters on how homes have been acquired and will award $350.00 in cash prizes for the six best letters submitted.

"We believe that thousands of little homes in far flung corners of this country could bear witness to countless stories of ambition and sacrifice," said Leonard P. Reaume, Detroit, President of the Realty Association in announcing the contest. "Such actual descriptions, dramatic and touching as they often can be, contain more reasons than the Realtor could gather in a hundred years.

May Produce New Ideas

"We want to know how people got their homes so we can pass these stories on to people who have no homes. And, aside from bringing home owing to the attention of the public, this contest may develop some practical suggestion that other families can emulate.

"One of the rules of the contest provides for the inclusion of actual figures in the letters submitted. These figures, showing actual transactions, with an owned home at the end of the road, may go a long way to convincing other people that if home owing has been practical and possible for the contestants, it can be practical and possible for them. We will publish many of the letters, and make them available to the public in different ways."

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 24 (UP)—Only one repeater was contained in the 1930 list of merit awards of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, announced recently.

That was Lewis Milestone, the Russian, who, in 1928, was named by the Academy as having done the most able directing of the year. The same distinction went to him this year.

Two years ago it was "Two Arabian Nights" and "The Racket" which led Academy members to honor Milestone. This time is was his direction of "All Quiet on the Western Front."

Started in 1920

Milestone, now only 35, entered the screen business in 1920. Until 1927 he worked as a cameraman, scenario writer and cutter. Then he got his first chance at directing.

In 1928 he was placed under contract to Howard Hughes, the young Texas millionaire, and he promptly demonstrated his ability to direct.

His first two pictures under Hughes were "Two Arabian Knights" and "The Racket." The Academy first began announcing awards that same year and Milestone and Frank Borzage were bracketed for first honors.

Frank Lloyd Took the Honor in 1929

Milestone's selection this year places him among the foremost directors of the film colony.

Ballot for Awards

The awards of the Academy are made on a ballot of all its members and most film workers are members.

Norma Shearer won this year's award for the best performance of an actress. Her role in "The Divorcee" was the reason. Mary Pickford received the distinction in 1929 through "The Coquette" and Janet Gaynor in 1928 through her work in "Sunrise."

George Arliss, through "Disraeli" was named as having given the outstanding performance by an actor in 1930. Warner Baxter won the award in 1929 for his appearance in "In Old Arizona" and Emil Jennings took it in 1928 for his work in "The Patriot" and others.

WINS FAME

John D'Vorack, aged San Francisco tailor, at last has come into his own. After long years of privation and sacrifice to study art, D'Vorack produced to paintings that were exhibited in the Legion of Honor Palace in San Francisco, one of which was purchased by the internationally famous mural artist, Diego Rivera.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28—Smiles wreathed the lined face of John D'Vorak today, as he lay in his cot in the Butte County Infirmary at Oroville, Cal.

The San Francisco tailor, who made tremendous sacrifices, even that of health itself, in order to satisfy his desire to become an artist, has just learned that Diego Rivera, internationally famous muralist, purchased one of his paintings.

It was the second stroke of good fortune that had decended upon D'Vorak to crown with success a life of prverty and hardship.

The California Palace of the Legion of Honor recently accepted two of his canvases for their California artists' exhibit.

It was one of these two works, a scene depicting American doughboys in the Argonne Forest, that Rivera purchased.

"I purchased the painting not as a curiosity, but as a very good picture," Rivera stated, and it was these words that cheered D'Vorak and gave him hope that his struggle to achieve artistic recognition had not been in vain.

Rivera was in San Francisco in response to an invitation from the Board of Directors of the San Francisco Stock Exchange to paint the murals for their new biulding.

Upon visiting the Legion Palace he was struck by the freshness and naivete of D'Vorak's painting, and purchased it on the spot.

Acquisition of the painting by Rivera has justified the belief of Lloyd L. Rollins, director of the Legion Palace, who, in accepting D'Vorak's works for exhibit, predicted that the struggling tailor, if given opportunity to study, would become an outstanding figure among the modernists.

D'Vorak's raise to success from the most humble of beginnings reads almost like a fairy tale.

The son of poor Austrian parents, he came to America in 1888. He traveled throughout the country of his adoption, working as a tailor, and settled in California in 1894.

While working in San Francisco, Sacramento, Chico and other cities, he spent all his earnings that he could spare above the very necessities of life, upon art lessons or materials.

Once he was forced to work in a box factory to earn money to take an art course, but despite the greatest of difficulities, he never faltered in his ambition.

Eleven months he spent in painting the two pictures which were finally accepted by the Legion Palace, Working at nights or in odd moments between his pressing and stitching, he succeeded in producing the two scenes which have evoked so much favorable comment, and one of which became the possession of Rivera.

With money and recognition almost assured, D'Vorak now hopes to regain his health as rapidly as possible, in order that he may go back to his beloved painting to enjoy the success that was so many years in coming, and for which he fought so hard.

Motion Pictures For the Home

By HOMER L. ROBERTS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 26 (UP)—Talking motion pictures for the home will be introduced on a national scale within the next few months, according to information received at the state capitol from Harold A. Lafount, federal radio ocmmissioner.

Radio receiving set and accessory manufacturers are preparing to enter this new entertainment realm and begin mass production at once, he said.

"I regard the introduction of talkies for the home as one of the most sensational developments in entertainment in several years," said the commission. "Based on radio principles, it is fitting that the radio industry should manufacture home talkie apparatus as an adjunct to their regular production lines.

"The next step, as I view it, is television, although no one can foretell when it will become a practical medium of entertainment. Now only television remains to complete the home entertainment field in immediate prospects."

No definite information as to the home talkie projector has been permitted to escape, up to this time, Lafount decalred, but manufacturers are agreed that the apparatus should retail under $200 and more likely between $100 and $150.

Home movies will acquire a voice by the combination of a sound disc synchronized with the film, the commissioner explained, onized combination of the home projector with a phonograph of specThe device is a perfectly synchorial manufacture. No sound track is used on the film.

For distribution among the public of films for the home talkies establishment of a"circulating library" process has been arranged. The home talkie exhibitor thus has only to rent, or possibly, buy a particular "home talkie" feature for exhibition in the home.

For the presentation of a continuous home performance of a feature, two projectors are required, just as in all regular motion picture houses. the real run off must be rewound before the next reel can be shown with a single prejector.

A lenghty communication was read from Hare, Brewer and Clark, and representing the Menlo Realty Company protesting against the action of the council in ordering complete improvements for Stanford park. The letter was ordered filed on the explanation of the mayor who said that Mr. Hare had telephoned him withdrawing the protest and saying his clients were satisfied with the action of the council.

The planning commission presented the following resolution which was referred to the street commission to investigate and report:

"Whereas with the completion of Dumbarton Bridge the east and west bound traffic has been greatly increased and whereas the completion of the Bayshore boulevard will further increase the need for a direct and safe connection between points east and west of the Southern Pacific Railroad right of way now therefore, we the Planning Commission of the City of Menlo Park, because of public need and safety recommend to your honorable body that immediate steps be taken to confer with the County Board of Supervisors to secure the prompt extension of Willow Road from Middlefield Road to El Camino Real and of an underpass under the Southern Pacific right-of-way; and we further recommend the extention of Alma street to connect with proposed new road."

The Menlo Park Community Club in a lenghty communication complained about the presence of a special officer at the dance given at the Blue Moon Hall. The club is compelled to pay the officer $5 a night and he appearing in uniform has caused the business to fall off considerably. The club, through its secretary F. J. Rohrer, asked to be relieved of the payment of the money and also of the officer, saying that Mr. Blanchard and Frank Lintner, members of the club, were deputies, and could take care of all emergencie cases. WOODSIDE

The Woodside Fire Department celebrated with a dinner at the Woodside Inn on Saturday night. About thirty were present, including several wives and some sweethearts. The dinner was excellent and the good-fellowship argued well for the morale of the department. But the fire was soon extinguished and they returned with increased appetities. Music, speaches and dancing followed the dinner.

SEEKING GOLD

TONOPAH, Nev., Nov. 28 (UP)—Drifting in, a few almost every day, lured by the recent strikes made on Mizpah Hills, are the leasers and miners who made Tonopah famous some 30 years ago.

Among the latest arrivals is Al Bass, who 30 years ago took out a small fortune from a lease on the Silver Top claim of the Tonopah Mining Co. It was in this lease that a narrow streak of almost pure gold was uncovered that ran in a straight line down the hill.

Bass still wears a heavy chain and a ring made from the gold he took from this streak. He has secured another lease on the Silver Top near where in early days an Italian extracted 800 pounds of ore that returned him $1500.

Expert Thinks Dry Lake May Overflow Again

CORCORAN, Cal., Nov. 28, (UP)—Tulare lake, marked on many maps as permantly dry, may again come back and flood the 750 square miles of the San Joaquin valley it once covered.

C. E. Grunsky, government engineer, is the authority for that prediction.

Grunsky has studied the Tulare lake many years. The lake was alternately dry and full for several decades until lately, when it has been dry most of every year.

Grunsky points out that studies of trees and other natural records show the lake has covered as much as 750 square miles many times, and once covered 800 square miles.. For periods of as long as half a century the lake has averaged 350 square miles area, and for equal periods it has been practically dry, he points out.

Tulare lake bottom for the last half century has proven one of the most fertile large areas devoted to wheat in the United States.

PICK UP THE DIMES

LET THEM MAKE THE DOLLARS

That's what my profit stamps do—one ten cent profit stamp with each dime purchase; ten profit stamps with each dollar purchase.

These stamps are kept in a profit book which is furnished by us.

If your food bill amounts to $50.00 a month you will be paid $1.25 cash each month. If $100.00 a month, you will be paid $2.50 cash each month; and this is not all—the profit stamps will be your daily profit—the Cash Dividend and enhancement in value besides. This plan is available to my customer partners.

You don't merely get profit stamps for a limited length of time but for all time as long as you continue to be a customer partner.

Whether you are rich or poor, you cannot afford to miss out on this opportunity.

Ask the manager of any Clarence Saunders Store and he will explain.
